This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

THE YEAR IN BOOKS

THE YEAR IN BOOKS

THE BOOKS OF 1913.

THE book production of the United States, which for two years past had remained practically stationary at a point marking a considerable recession from the high figures of 1910, this year shows a substantial increase, though as yet the 1910 figures remain the record. The tendency is constantly upward and it is not unlikely that the 1914 figures will set a new high point.

Despite the increased production of titles, or because of it—as you prefer, there has been a notable betterment in quality, in considerable contrast with 1912, in which quality of output, if anything, fell below par. 1913, like 1911, was a good FICTION year, the two "best sellers" of the year, "V. V.'s Eyes" and "The Inside of the Cup," setting a high standard from both the ethical and literary standpoint. Another significant fact is that three novels standing high in the fiction list from the points of view both of popularity and literary finish —"V. V.'s Eyes," itself, "The Happy Warrior" and "The Garden Without Walls" were by writers either completely new or practically so.

In the general field average prices for books continue to fall and there is an increasing and praiseworthy output of practical and popular but authoritatively edited books at reasonable prices. This is true in practically every field of knowledge, except perhaps BIOGRAPHY, where, curiously enough, average prices seem to remain comparatively high. The total of books of biography continues large, however.

Feminine unrest the world over finds increasing literary expression: in fact books on the WOMAN question are a feature of the year's production. DRAMA and POETRY show a large increase in sales as well as titles, reflecting their renaissance in popular interest. Books on two "new" subjects which were features of 1911 and 1912 respectively, AVIATION and EUGENICS, showed a falling off in 1913.

In SPORTS AND GAMES, if we may judge by their respective literatures, Auction has by a large margin the largest following indoors as Golf has outdoors.

FICTION.

It has been difficult for the average novel reader to keep up with the good things of 1913—at least two dozen novels published last year are too good to be missed, and though two dozen out of an output of 1156 may seem a small number, it must be remembered that those twenty-four include only the very cream of the year's output, the books that every adult should know.

Certain general tendencies are noticeable in the stories by American authors distinguishing them from the English books. Analysis is the keynote everywhere, but in America the analysis is more social than personal—some will say more wholesome, though the question of what is or is not wholesome in a novel is as far from solution as ever.

Broadly speaking it is woman that has claimed the attention of the American novelists—especially woman in her relation to modern life, the theme that Dorothy Canfield used so well in "The Squirrel Cage" of 1912, and that Winston Churchill treated earlier in "A Modern Chronicle." And how the social leader has suffered at the hands of the penetrating novelist! One wonders that the dressmakers have not all gone out of business, and the society pages of the papers been transformed into departments for the study of sociology. And yet the shops are as full as ever and the tango still swings! Henry Sydnor Harrison was one of those who tried to show the hollowness of our social life, yet, like a good Southerner, he gives the heroine of "V. V.'s Eyes," certain redeeming graces, and while he picks her to pieces unsparingly in all her pettiness he lets her better side triumph in the end. Not so Edith Wharton, whose "The Custom of the Country" pictures a beautiful woman whose sole ambition is social triumph, and who, after a thoroughly selfish career in America and France is left without evidencing the least particle of a nobler nature. Nor is Millie Ridge of Robert Herrick's "One Woman's Life" drawn less mercilessly. Booth Tarkington gives a none too gentle picture of "The Flirt" in his novel of that name, and Corra Harris in "In Search of a Husband" is as unsparing as usual in her picture of feminine weakness and vanity. The effect of the feminist movement on the old fashioned woman is cleverly shown in Ellen Glasgow's "Virginia" and in a different way in Mary Johnston's "Hagar," both stories that begin forty years or more ago and end at the present time. "Comrade Yetta," by Albert Edwards tells of still another type of woman whose problems are solved by her discovery of Socialism. There is hardly a phase of American life and its problems that is not well studied in some books of the year. One of the most significant and widely read is Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup," a remarkably strong story of a young clergyman whose struggle against old-fashioned theology is no less significant than his struggle against social evils, in both of which efforts he is at variance with the wealthy and conservative element of his congregation. "Van Cleve," by Mary S. Watts is another splendid story of American life.

It is rather interesting to note that almost all the novels of the year are present-day stories. Even those that are not of this century are of times within the memory of the older generation. Some of the most successful of these were "Gold," by Stewart Edward White, a tale of the '49 craze, "Westways," set in Civil War times, by S. Weir Mitchell, "Laddie," a wholesome story of the Middle West in the 70's by Gene Stratton-Porter, and "The Heart of the Hills," a Southern mountaineer story by John Fox.

While the American novelists have been busy with woman psychology the English novelists have been writing largely of the psychology of passion. One of the most remarkable of these books is John Galsworthy's "The Dark Flower," the story of a man's three love affairs told in Galsworthy's wonderful English with great psychological penetration. "The Garden Without Walls," by Coningsby Dawson (who may however be counted American because for some years domiciled here), which reached a wide circle of readers, is also entirely taken up with the love stories of its hero. Another analyst, Compton Mackenzie, studies the development of his hero from babyhood in "Youth's Encounter" leaving him indeed before he has entered college, but not before he has had several love affairs, both wholesome and unwholesome. H. G. Wells, in "The Passionate Friends," tells an interesting story with a love problem, and Hall Caine writes without reserve the story of a woman's life in "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," a book banned by the English libraries. Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Judgment House," may also be classed here. "The Devil's Garden," by W. B. Maxwell is still another story of the psychology of passion, but this, though published in England in 1913, properly belongs in this country with the books of 1914.

It is something of a relief to turn to the novels whose interest does not center around the perplexing problems of love and marriage, or rather of love without marriage—and indeed some of the best English books of the year are tales of adventure or character study, entirely free from morbidness. "The Happy Warrior," by A. S. M. Hutchinson comes first in the former class—the story of a real man, no less interesting for being clean and highly idealistic. Hugh Walpole's "Fortitude" and Eden Phillpotts' "Widecombe Fair" are entirely too good to miss—both stories of rural English life, with excellent characterization.

Mention should be made of "Stella Maris" by William Locke, the awakening of a beautiful young girl to the sorrow of the world, "The Coryston Family," Mrs. Humphry Ward's tale of the conflict of radicalism and aristocracy, Arnold Bennett's "The Old Adam," telling how a successful, sober, business man suddenly launched on a new career, "The Amateur Gentleman," by Jeffery Farnol, in the style of "The Broad Highway" and "My Little Sister," by Elizabeth Robins, a harrowing story of a girl lured into a house of ill-fame in London and never found.

From both England and America have come plenty of those stories of cheer or sentiment that are almost sure to win popularity, books like Eleanor Porter's "Pollyanna," Emma C. Dowd's "Polly of Lady Gay Cottage," Ralph Barbour's "Lady Laughter," Mrs. Burnett's "T. Tembarom," Kate Langley Bosher's "The House of Happiness," Barclay's "The Broken Halo."

The author who writes "something different" is indeed a treasure, and 1913 has given us two or three books of a distinctly new turn. Foremost among these is "The Crock of Gold," by James Stephens, a delightful mixture of Irish folk-lore, philosophy and nonsense. "Here Are Ladies," a book of equally novel stories by the same author appeared at the end of the year. "Fatima, or Always Pick a Fool for Your Husband," by Rowland Thomas is an amusing tale of Ancient Egypt with an entirely human heroine. William Locke's "Aristide Pujol" has a new hero, a tricky, lovable person, such as only Locke could invent. And when it comes to novelty, nothing could be much more original than Conan Doyle's "The Poison Belt," which tells how the entire human race was threatened with extermination.

BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, CORRESPONDENCE.

Theodore Roosevelt's "Autobiography," a comprehensive story of his life from childhood, embodying not only all the events of his career but much of his philosophy on things political and otherwise, is perhaps the most noteworthy single biographical work of the year. Admiral Dewey has also written an autobiography so that we have the authentic stories of two of the most talked-of men of the generaation, doubtless saving future historians much research! The fourth and fifth volumes of John Bigelow's "Retrospection of an Active Life" bring that painstaking and interesting work to a close. Volumes seven and eight of the "Journals" of Ralph Waldo Emerson have been published, of course, with permanency assured. Other literary men of this country are recalled by such works as "Hawthorne and His Publisher," by Caroline Ticknor, and "Letters of Charles Eliot Norton," while the statesmen are represented by "Early Memories" of Henry Cabot Lodge, and "Letters, Speeches and Correspondence of Carl Schurz," in six volumes.

The "Letters and Recollections of Alexander Agassiz," "The Autobiography of an Individualist," by James O. Fagan, "Reminiscences," by Augustus Saint-Gaudens, "Fifteen Years of a Dancer's Life," by Loïe Fuller, and "Memoirs of an American Prima Donna," by Clara Louise Kellogg are a few of the diverse biographical works that throw light on the careers of celebrities in various lines.

Foreign biographies have been, as usual, imported in large numbers—the usual crop of historical memoirs with intimate accounts of the near-spicy love affairs of sundry distinguished and undistinguished people—with here and there a critical study of more than passing interest. A biography of Gissing—though not avowedly so—written by Morley Roberts under the title "The Private Life of Henry Maitland," told a tragic and unusually interesting story. Amelia Barr's "All the Days of My Life," proved a detailed and readable autobiography. Countess Marie Larisch gave reminiscences of the courts of Austria and of Bavaria in "My Past." The first biography of Fabre in English was written by C. V. Legros under the title "Fabre, Poet of Science." Other books too noteworthy to be passed by include "Life of Henry Labouchere," by A. L. Thorold, "Lord Lister," by G. T. Wrench, "Bulwer-Lytton," by the Earl of Lytton, "The Authoritative Life of General William Booth," by G. S. Railton, "Rahel Varnhagen," the life story of a woman in advance of her times, by Ellen Key, and "Voices of To-morrow," an interesting semi-biographical semi-literary study of some of the more advanced modern writers, by Edwin Björkman.

HISTORY.

In sociological history the year has brought "Power of Ideals in American History," by E. D. Adams, "The Soul of America," by Stanton Coit, an advocate of spiritual unity in this country, and "Social and Economic Forces in American History," by Albert Bushnell Hart. General histories of the United States include "A Short History of the United States," by John Spencer Bassett, and volume 8 of McMaster's "History of the United States from the Revolution to the Civil War," completing a monumental work—while of histories of special wars and periods there are any number, notably "Beyond the Old Frontier," by G. Bird Grinnell, "The Major Operations of American Independence," by Admiral Mahan, "Naval History of the American Revolution," by Gardiner Weld Allen, "The United States and Mexico," in two volumes, by George Lockheart Rives, "The Battle of Gettysburg," by Jesse B. Young (a participant), "The Reconstruction Period," by James Schouler and—to come down to modern times—"Americans in the Philippines," by James LeRoy, and "The Philippine Problem," by F. C. Chamberlain.

Books on the Balkan and Turko-Italian wars, of course, took foremost place among the histories of European countries. Francis McCullagh's "Italy's War for a Desert" is strongly anti-Italian, while George Frederick Abbott tells, in "The Holy War in Tripoli," of his experiences with both armies. "With the Bulgarian Staff" is the self-explanatory title of Noel Buxton's volume, and "With the Conquered Turk," indicates the side of the Thracian campaign witnessed by its author, Lionel James. Other accounts of the war have been given by Ellis and Seabury Ashmead-Bartlett in "With the Turks in Thrace," Granville Barker in "The Passing of the Turkish Empire in Europe," Hermangild Wagner in "With the Victorious Bulgarians," and Philip Gibbs and Bernard Grant in "The Balkan War."

China's troubles are all chronicled in "The Passing of the Dragon," by J. C. Keyte, an eye-witness of the end of the Manchu dynasty, "China's Revolution, 1911-12," by Edwin J. Dingle, and "The Passing of the Manchus," by P. H. Kent, legal adviser to the Taotai of Chihli.

Mexico's revolution is described by a young Englishman, Hugh B. C. Pollard, in "A Busy Time in Mexico."

To go back to older troubles, "Napoleon's Last Campaign in Germany, 1813," is given attention by Francis Lorain Petre, who has written three previous volumes on Napoleon. "Symbol and Satire in the French Revolution," by Ernest Flagg Henderson, "The Fall of the Dutch Republic," by H. W. Van Loon, "Germany and its Evolution in Modern Times," by Henri Lichtenberger, and "Germany and the Next War," a prophecy by Gen. F. Von Bernhardi and "Ancient Greece," by H. B. Cotterill, are but a few of the new volumes on European history.

In certain problematical studies of "the wherefor of the why" of history, several interesting theories are expounded. F. Adams Woods, in "The Influence of Monarchs," attempts to prove that nations progress only under the leadership of strong sovereigns, and in "The Fate of Empires," Arthur John Hubbard endeavors to show that a decline in birth-rate and the appearance of Socialism mark the death of all civilizations. "Problems of Power," by W. Morton Fullerton, is a study of international politics from Sadowa to Kirk-Kilisse.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION.

The outstanding travel book of the year is, no doubt, "Scott's Last Expedition," the record of a heroic venture, made more gripping by the very fact that it ends in tragedy. Amundsen's story of his successful exploration trip was published under the title "The South Pole," making, with Peary's "The North Pole" the final record of the discovery of the most remote parts of the earth.

Belmore Browne's "The Conquest of Mt. McKinley," is another tale of adventurous exploration, ending practically, if not literally, in triumph.

Panama has attracted any number of writers, with the result that narratives of every description concerning the canal and the country have appeared. The most original is probably "Zone Policeman 88," recounting the experiences of Harry A. Franck, a born tramp and born story teller. "The Panama Gateway," by J. B. Bishop and "Pacific Shores from Panama," written and illustrated by Ernest Peixotto, are other samples of Panama books.

Nothing remarkably distinctive concerning the United States has appeared, though several interesting volumes give rather new pictures of the West, as for instance Arthur E. Bostwick's "The Different West," humorously written impressions of a transplanted Easterner, and Agnes C. Laut's "Through Our Unknown Southwest."

South America still attracts: the most significant books on the country being "Across Unknown South America," by A. Henry Savage-Landor—the story of a 13,750-mile journey in the wilderness—and "South America," observations and impressions by James Bryce.

Among the host of volumes on European travel (and they show no sign of lessening in quantity) the most entertaining are perhaps "In Thackeray's London," written and charmingly illustrated by F. Hopkinson Smith, "Magnetic Paris," with plenty of Parisian atmosphere, by Adelaide Mack, "Germany and the Germans from an American Point of View," a clever analysis of things political and otherwise by Price Collier, and Arnold Bennett's "Paris Nights." William Dean Howells contributed an account of his 1911-12 travels in Spain under the title "Familiar Spanish Travels."

The African wilds, and the edges thereof, have been turned to account by a number of authors. Stewart Edward White's "African Camp Fires," Albert Edward's "The Barbary Coast" and Dan Crawford's "Thinking Black"—the story of half a life-time spent among the natives—throw light on the dark continent. It is rather strange that three of the most interesting African travel books of the year are the work of women: "Wayfarers in the Libyan Desert," by Frances Gordon Alexander, telling how two women organize a caravan, "My Sudan Year," by Ethel Stevens, the story of a journey from Khartoum into the interior, and "Some African Highways," by Caroline Kirkland, recounting the travel experiences of two women in Uganda and Transvaal.

Travel books on Asia were for the most part importations, and comparatively high priced. The third volume of Sir Sven Anders Hedin's "Trans Himalaya," made its appearance, continuing the minute record of a unique journey. Remote Siberia is described by R. L. Wright and D. G. Bassett in "Through Siberia; an Empire in the Making," and by

M. P. Price in "Siberia." Other significant works on Asia and Asians include "Travels Without Baedeker," by Ardern Beaman, "A Wayfarer in China," by Elizabeth Kendall, who travelled alone, "Empires of the Far East," by Lancelot Lawton, "Burma Under British Rule," by Joseph d'Autremer and "The Malay Peninsula," by Arnold Wright and Thomas H. Reid.

POLITICS AND SOCIOLOGY.

To give in short space anything like an adequate representation of the books on sociological matters is out of the question. Each year the list becomes longer, while specialists narrow their fields and go in for intensive work. One more or less recent development among the schemes for making over the world is Syndicalism, represented in the year's output of books by "The New Unionism," by André Tridon, "Syndicalism, Industrial Unionism and Socialism," by John Spargo, "American Syndicalism: The I. W. W.," by John Graham Brooks, and "Syndicalism and the General Strike; an Explanation," by Arthur D. Lewis. But in spite of the popularity of this more radical doctrine, good old-fashioned conservative Socialism still has its supporters, as witnessed by such books as "The Larger Aspects of Socialism: Its Intellectual and Spiritual Sides:" by English Walling, and "Socialism and Democracy in Europe," by Samuel Philip Orth. Attacks on Socialism were made by Rev. Bernard Vaughan in "Socialism from the Christian Standpoint," and by V. G. Simkhovitch in "Marxism versus Socialism."

Investigation of working conditions has resulted in such books as "Artificial Flower Makers," by Mary Van Kleek and "Young Working Girls," by Robert Woods and A. J. Kennedy. Insurance, taxation and immigration are treated in "Insurance and the State," by William Franklin Gephart, "Social Insurance," by I. M. Rubinow, "Taxation and the Distribution of Wealth," by Frederic Mathews, "Immigration: a World Movement and its American Significance," by H. Pratt Fairchild, and "The Immigrant Invasion," by Julian Frank Warne.

City government is still attracting especial attention from the writers, with the result that we have been given such books as "American City Government; a Survey of Newer Tendencies," by Charles Austin Beard, "The Government of American Cities," by William Bennett Munro, and "European Cities at Work," by Frederic C. Howe. But of all the subjects over which the sociologist ponders no one, apparently, has given him so much cause for thought as that permanently puzzling question of woman's place, and how to put her in it and keep her there. For the most part the contributions of 1914 have been pro-feminist, with an entirely modern interpretation of what woman's place should be. Sir Almroth Wright, indeed, in "The Unexpurgated Case Against Woman Suffrage" attempted to prove conclusively the eternal inferiority of the eternal feminine, but Mrs. C. Gasquoine Hartley in "The Truth About Woman," takes quite the inverse view, while even members of the "unfair" sex—W. L. George, for instance, in "Woman and To-Morrow," uphold claims of sex-equality.

SCIENCE.

Seldom does a writer appear who combines scientific knowledge of the first order with a distinctive literary style. J. H. Fabre has already won fame as one who can make science sound like fiction. Two books have come from him this year, "The Life of the Spider," and "The Life of the Fly," both evidencing their author's right to the title of "the insects' Homer." The scientific field is being kept up to date by a large number of excellent and inexpensive handbooks by authorities. Such important books as "Elements and Electrons," by Sir William Ramsay, "The Age of the Earth," by Arthur Holmes, and "The Origin and Nature of Life," by Benjamin Moore, are easily within the means of practically any student of science, while the follower of history or biography must pay a heavy tribute for the latest news in his chosen field.

Zoology on its more popular side is well represented by "Western Bird Guide," by Reed, "Wild Life and the Camera," by A. R. Dugmore, "The Beaver World," by Enos Alijah Mills, "More Wild Animals and the Camera," by Walter P. Dando, "A History of the Land Mammals in the Western Hemisphere," by W. B. Scott and "Wild Animals at Home," by Ernest Thompson Seton.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rabindranath Tagore, Masefield and Noyes are perhaps the most talked of poets of the year, the first because he received the Nobel prize for literature, the last because of his visit to this country. Masefield's "The Daffodil Fields," and "New Poems" showed again the narrative grace and boldness that brought "The Everlasting Mercy" into prominence. Tagore's "Gitanjali," "The Gardener," and "The Crescent Moon, child-poems," all appeared during the year. "Tales of the Mermaid Tavern" came from Noyes. The works of Bridges, the new poet-laureate, were published, the poems and plays of William Vaughn Moody and new editions of the poems of Robert W. Service. One of the largest publishing undertakings of the year was the issuance in six large volumes of the authorized "Complete works" of James Whitcomb Riley.

The latest volume in the Variorum Shakespeare, "The Tragedie of Ivlivs Cæsar," edited by Horace Howard Furness, Jr., made its appearance in the summer. Three volumes of Hauptmann's plays were published during the year, and the third series of plays by Strindberg. The number of books about the drama was rather noticeable—among them being "Towards a New Theatre," by Edward Gordon Craig, "Our Irish Theatre," by Lady Gregory, and "Thoughts and After-Thoughts," essays on dramatic subjects by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree.

Probably no new volume of essays attained the circulation reached by "The New Freedom," by Woodrow Wilson. "University and Historical Addresses," by James Bryce was also often seen on the "best-selling non-fiction" list. Other noteworthy volumes of essays include "Out of the Dark," by Helen Keller, "The Inn of Tranquillity," by John Galsworthy, "The Friendly Road," by David Grayson, and "The Pathos of Distance," by James G. Huneker.

Three volumes stand out in the psychological and philosophical field, "Crowds; a Moving Picture of Democracy in Five Books," by Gerald Stanley Lee; "Psychology and Industrial Efficiency," by Hugo Münsterberg; and "Our Eternity," by Maurice Maeterlinck.

Although the usual number of volumes on Religion and Theology have appeared, few seem distinctive. The socializing of religion is still the key-note, as exemplified by such books as "Democracy and the Church," by S. G. Smith and "Christianizing the Social Order," by Walter Rauschenbusch—or "The Inside of the Cup," in fiction.

Painting and other arts were fairly well represented. "George Frederic Watts," by Mrs. Mary S. T. Watts, "The Curious Lore of Precious Stones," by Dr. George F. Kunz and "The Conception of Art," by H. Rankin Poore, are all of interest.

The "New Standard Dictionary," is probably the outstanding reference work of the year. The "Everyman Encyclopedia" in twelve volumes, and "The Loeb Classical Library" a subsidized series, are important and enduring monuments.

BOOK PRODUCTION, 1913.

AMERICAN.

The number of books recorded in the weekly and monthly lists of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1913 was 12,230, 1,327 more than in 1912 when 10,903 titles were recorded. Of this number 10,607 were new books, and 1,623 new editions, 9,085 were by American authors, 677 were by English and foreign writers and 2,468 were imported.

The greatest gain has been in general literature, 209 more books having been recorded than during the previous twelve months, 524 titles in this subject being 1912's count against 733 in 1913. Sociology and economics show the figures 867 in 1912, 977 in 1913, these subjects still occupying a large share in the publishers' output and the public's interest. Applied science in 1912 had 674 books, in 1913, 781, a gain of 107; agriculture also shows an advance, the figures being 305 against 409, an increase of 104. Fiction, both adult and juvenile, usually show increases, and 1913 is no exception to this rule, 1010 and 546 are 1912's showing in these divisions, 1156 and 622, 1913's. In other subjects the gain is not so great and in one, law, there is a falling off, 862 titles in 1912 against 692 last year.

The total book production for 1913, 12,230 has been exceeded but once, in 1910, when 13,470 titles were listed. The English book production last year, it may be noted, was slightly in excess of our own, 12,379.

We separate this year, for the first time, the number of pamphlets recorded during the year. Pamphlets have not been classified separately, but are included with books in the classified tables.

A new rule was adopted in 1913 with regard to the differentiation of new editions from new books. Heretofore it had been the custom to class as a new book any work printed in new form, whether or not it had been already published and to class as a new edition a work newly revised or changed in which case, in general, the title page indicates that the book is a new edition. In the 1913 statistics, however, only books never before published are classed as new, while classics, or other previously printed works are counted as new editions, even though newly illustrated and printed from new plates. This change accounts for the increase in "new editions."

INTERNATIONAL STATISTICS OF BOOK AND PERIODICAL PRODUCTION.

CONDENSED IN LARGE PART FROM DATA COMPILED BY "LE DROIT D'AUTEUR."

THE characteristic note in the estimate of the actual book-production, says Le Droit d'Auteur in its annual international review of book-production statistics, is sounded in the title of a report presented in 1912 at a meeting of American booksellers. It is worded thus: "Fewer books and better books." There is a general protest, in fact, against the tendency toward over production, a tendency which has been checked temporarily in the United States, in France, and in Great Britain, but which is nevertheless slowly gaining ground.

It is doubtful whether this protest will have any appreciable effect. What author is not convinced that his own book, which others pronounce superfluous and insignificant, is indispensable and useful? What publisher does not believe that he is filling a long-felt want in bringing out some work considered by his brother publishers as a drug on the market? Yet, is not the proportion of unpublished manuscripts very large compared with the number which actually see the light? Overproduction, moreover, is confined to belles-lettres while in other branches many needed books remain unwritten.

The conflict between quality and quantity will always be with us. A healthful reaction will set this right only when the following sound principles are more closely studied: a reduction in the number of copies in an edition; a knowledge of the contents of the book on the part of the publisher and bookseller; the rejection of purely sensational books; the sale of good books at reasonable prices; a study of the fluctuations of the market and reduction in the output in case of a financial crisis or temporary stringency.

On this subject, statistics, although they testify only to the past, may give food for thought for the future. They will constitute a moderating element in this overactivity in book production, which, though at first sight seemingly haphazard, nevertheless obeys general laws.

GREAT BRITAIN.

BOOK PRODUCTION.*

THE number of books recorded as having been published during 1913 is 12,379, an increase of 312 on the total for 1912. The monthly figures given in the second part of the appended analytical table show that the rate of production during the year has been fairly steady from month to month, with the exception of the comparatively empty months of August and December. October, as usual, holds first place with the total of 1,696, although this figure falls short by 44 of the record total noted last year. January has also come into the forefront as a busy month.

*The English book production figures are from the English Publishers' Circular

There are some differences in the distribution of the year's total over the various classes of literature. The following classes have increased this year as compared with 1912:—Religion, 91; Sociology, 216; Law, 15; Technology, 113; Medicine, etc., 38; Agriculture, etc., 61; Business, 32; Games, etc., 22; Fiction, 40; History, 32; and Travel and Geography, 144. The principal decreases are Science, 95; Domestic Arts, 54; and Juvenile, 137. It should also be noted that while the total number of publications has increased by 312, the number of new editions has decreased by 32.

The totals for the last ten years show the striking development of British publishing:—

The statistical table on the preceding page gives further detailed information regarding the year's publishing.

GERMANY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The year 1912 has disproved the forecasts of those who, for reasons apparently well founded, predicted a great decrease or at least an interruption in book production. In spite of political complications caused by the Balkan War and its effect on business in western Europe, in spite of the high cost of living, the limited supply of available capital and the increase in manufacturing expense, the activity of the publishing trade has been marked. The total number of books published was greater than that in 1911, by 5.46%, whereas the total of that year surpassed that of 1910 by 5.49%. The depression of 1909 and 1910 has not continued; 1803 more publications were put on the market than in 1911. Almost one-third of the increase (+591) falls in the category of the belles-lettres; this fact is universally attributed to the publication of several large popular-priced editions of the works of various authors, for the most part new editions. A second third includes law and political science, business, history and architecture, while the final third takes in almost all the other classifications of literature, the decrease in three of them (philology, geography, agriculture) being scarcely perceptible.

That the number of publications on military subjects is a little in excess of the average between the years 1901 and 1910 (668), but does not yet reach the figures of the years 1906 (715), 1907 (693), 1908 (703), 1909 (691), is slight consolation to the advocates of peace.

GERMAN BOOKS PUBLISHED IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

Figures have been compiled which show what share other countries or continents have in this total, which includes, in addition to the books published in any one of the languages of the Empire, works which have appeared in parts of neighboring States where German is spoken and those published in the German language in any part of the world, provided they have received bibliographical notice. M. L. Schönrock, Leipzig, has been at considerable pains *to study this geographical phase of book production. He discovered that 4,648 of the 34,801 publications handled by the house of J. C. Hinrichs appeared outside of the borders of the German Empire, so that strictly speaking the book production of Germany proper was in 1912 30,153 works (books and pamphlets.) This figure, however, is and continues to be colossal, especially when one takes into consideration the fact that publications not turned into the regular channels of the booktrade (estimated at some hundreds a year) do not appear in these statistics.

The 4,648 foreign publications in the German language are divided as follows: Austria-Hungary, 3,158; Switzerland, 1,006; Russia, especially the Balkan provinces and Finland, 137; the Scandinavian provinces, 107 (Sweden, 80 chiefly from Upsala); Norway, 17; Denmark, 10; the Netherlands, 51 (Leyden and Amsterdam); Italy, 40; France, 36 Belgium (Brussels, Liège) and Great Britain (Oxford), each 16; Bulgaria, 6; Greece and Luxemburg, 5; Roumania and Spain, 4; Turkey, 3. In addition 25 works appeared in America—a figure evidently much lower than the actual number—15 in Africa and 14 in Asia, that is in the countries under German protection. A year ago we were able, on the authority of M. Goldfriedrich, to state the number of works in the German language brought out in foreign countries for the year 1908 as 2,867 in Austria-Hungary, 875 in German Switzerland and 187 in other countries. For the German Empire there remained only 24,474 books and pamphlets. A very considerable increase in books produced in Germany has thus been reached, since in 1912 the above figure was raised by 5,679 books.

UNIVERSITY THESES.

University theses are listed in a special review entitled Bibliographischer Monatsbericht brought out by the house of Gustave Fock, Leipzig. The figures attained in the school year 1912-1913 are the highest yet reached; they exceed by 79 those of the school year 1910-1911 which headed the list. They include 1,644 more titles than the corresponding records of the school year 1908-1909. There is increase all along the line with the exception of pedagogical works (—92) and books on the veterinary art (—40). The increase is very noticeable in law and economics, history and chemistry. But, hitherto, it has been almost impossible to generalize these statistics, because of the sudden and unexpected increases in numbers.

TRANSLATIONS OF GERMAN WORKS.

Translations of German works, either protected or uncopyrighted, have been given bibliographical notice as usual in the Börsenblatt by M. Pech for the versions in the Slavic, Hungarian, Roumanian and in other languages of Oriental Europe. In counting their titles we have found 556 publications, 20 less than in 1911 and 9 less than in 1910. This is apparent from the following table which shows great uniformity for the three last years:

YEARS.		YEARS.
1903	319	1908	410
1904	400	1909	477
1905	333	1910	565
1906	358	1911	576
1907	425	1912	556

The bibliography of German works translated into English, Danish, Spanish, French, Italian, Dutch, Norwegian, and Swedish has been continued by Mr. Mühlbrecht, Jr. By a curious coincidence the same number of translations, 357, were published in 1910 and 1911. In 1912 there were 442 translations, three more than in 1909 and 9 less than in 1906.

GERMAN BOOKS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The number of German books for which copyright was asked in 1912 in the United States is shown in the following table compiled from the records of the official agency at New York (German Book, Art and Music Agency):

	1911	1912
Musical Works	2,680	2,965
Books	628	615
Reviews	182	181
Dramatic Works	68	48
Pictures, Drawings, Sketches	48	124
Maps	1	1
Total	3,607	3,934

The music trade is engaging more and more the services of the above mentioned agency with a view to obtaining the American copyright for musical novelties. As for books, there must be added to the figures given above 1,000 representing the works deposited in 1912 with the American Institute in Berlin which agrees to send them without charge to Washington to be registered. Sixteen hundred German books protected by copyright in the United States, out of upwards of 30,000 published in Germany, seems a trifling number, especially in view of the fact that American works are protected exclusively in the latter country, but it is a beginning which is forcing the American literary pirates to be concerned with the existence or non-existence of the rights of authors.

PERIODICALS.

The German periodical press was not mentioned in our last annual review for lack of recent information. This year a new edition, the 48th, of the excellent annual published by M. H. O. Sperling at Stuttgart has just appeared, and has provided us with the desired material. It is important to point out at the same time that the Zeitschriften-Adressbuch, Hand- und Jahrbuch der deutschen Presse contains the bibliography of the magazines and principal political newspapers of Germany, not only in the Empire and in the countries under its protection, but also in Austria, Switzerland, and in Russia; this additional matter is very convenient for the reader of German, but must be taken into consideration when the number of periodicals in the Empire alone is to be considered. The following table gives the figures taken from the ten last editions:

YEAR.	EDITION.	PER. PUBL.
1899	39th	4702
1901	40th	5231
1902	41st	5545
1904	42d	5717
1906	43d	5715
1908	44th	5747
1910	45th	5891
1911	46th	5983
1912	47th	6178
1914	48th	6689

The increase for the last year, as for the preceding years in fact, is essentially relative, coming from greater thoroughness in compilation rather than actual increase.

The periodicals are grouped into 31 main heads, of which four are further subdivided (industrial art, technology and industry; 24 subdivisions; sport, games, collections: 8; theology: 4; juveniles: 3). We will give here at least the figures of the principal divisions recorded in the last two annuals:

30.	Insurance	49	61
31.	Juvenile papers	92	111
32.	Miscellaneous	47	54
	Total	6,178	6,689

The figures have remained the same for the main heads 16 and 20; they have become slightly lower in divisions 4, 13, 24 and 28, and have become higher in all the others, principally—it is not entirely due to chance—in the branches of law, politics, and economics (+79), of theology (+59), business (+41), architecture (+40), sport (+28), pedagogy (+26), history (+23) and fashions (+23).

The second part of Mr. Sperling's annual enumerates the principal political newspapers appearing in German-speaking countries; in 1913, 1344 (1911; 1297; 1912, 1364).

Mr. Stocklossa gives us statistical information concerning the press up to January 1st, 1910. This information is limited to the German Empire and shows a total of 9,304 periodicals of which 5,410 are reviews and professional magazines and 3,894, newspapers. The first are published in 608 localities, the second appear in 2,227 places. The same authority informs us that the total publication of newspapers is 18 million copies which represents on an average an edition of 5,430 copies to a paper (other periodicals, 34 millions; average edition per review, 6,590 copies). We shall not be far from the truth in placing the number of periodicals which actually see the light in Germany at 10,000.

GERMAN BOOKTRADE STATISTICS.

The gradual development of the German booktrade can be followed, thanks to the record of statistics which have been compiled by the excellent annual, the Offizielles Adressbuch des deutschen Buchhandels, published by the German Booksellers' Association. As this Annual has been published since 1839 it is possible to review a period of 75 years, and to judge for one's self the general trade movement from the following four dates:

Years	1839	1863	1888	1913
Firms	1,348	2,797	7,026	12,412
Localities	386	723	1,576	2,451

For the opening year, the Annual of 1914 contains a table of the number of publishing houses, book stores, publishers of music and works of art, grouped about the central organization at Leipzig. The following table gives the figures of 1914 as compared to those of the preceding year:

	1913	1914
Germany	9.525	9.482
Austria-Hungary	1,100	1,104
Switzerland	355	349
European Countries	1,120	1,123
America	226	234
Africa	30	39
Asia	45	49
Australia	11	14
Total	12,412	12,394

The slight decrease in the number of firms in Germany and in Switzerland must again be attributed to the policy begun by the Annual two years ago of excluding firms which handle books only incidentally.

The 12,394 firms are situated in 2,466 localities (1913; 2,451) among which 1,683 (1,675) are to be found in the German Empire, 335 (330) in Austria Hungary, 87 (84) in Switzerland, 236 (242) in the other countries of Europe, 72 (73) in America, etc. There are 3,247 (1913, 3,249), actual book publishers to 370 (373) publishers of works of art and 494 (495) music publishers. The general booktrade includes 7,273 houses. As for circulating libraries, they number 1,026 (1,366) and grow fewer each year.

On the 15th of March, 1913, the German Börsenverein had 3,561 members (1912: 3,543).

AUSTRIA.

While the region beyond the Leitha has compiled a complete bibliography for the year 1912, similar information for the cisleithan section is lacking. We have learned only that the firm of Hinrichs, Leipzig, lists 3,158 works in the German language which appeared for the most part, if not entirely, in that section of the country in 1912. The following extract from Perles' Adressbuch gives statistics of the booktrade for the years 1911 and 1912.

	1911	1912
Total number of firms	3,034	3,111
Localities	839	864
Bookselling establishments	2,709	2,768
Publishing houses	720	760
Circulating libraries	2,199	2,234
Second-hand booksellers	440	457
Dealers in maps and works of art	878	919
Art and map publishers	49	49
Music dealers	1,099	1,166
Circulating libraries	347	346
Music subscription firms	61	60
Music publishers	72	74
Dealers in second-hand music	37	38

Judging from these figures, the booktrade continues to grow and to extend into new localities.

BELGIUM.

The statistical record of books and pamphlets put at our disposal by the "International Institute of Bibliography" shows for 1912 a rather considerable decrease (-482) in comparison with 1911's output classified under the same 21 main heads:

	1911	1912
Bibliography	122	106
Philosophy. Ethics	54	57
Religion	299	165
Sociology: Statistics, politics, political economy, insurance, charity	193	230

Total	2,885	2,403

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

According to L'Union de la Presse Périodique (1913, p. 25), the number of newspapers and periodicals amounted in 1910 to 2,366 (1885: 829), thus classified: Political journals, 597, financial 312, agricultural, commercial and industrial 269, and miscellaneous 1,188. The number of papers and magazines published in the Flemish language is also given. Belgium had 25 in 1840, 72 in 1855, 363 in 1899, and 893 in 1913. These figures are significant of the spread of the Flemish tongue in this country.

One compiler of statistics has noted the number of new periodicals published in Belgium from 1903 to 1912, and has found that between the years 1903 and 1905 22 new periodicals were being published monthly, between 1906 and 1907 30, and between 1908 and 1912, 35. Of these 3,500 new periodicals more than 3,000 ceased to appear, and were not in existence by 1913. The periodical arena is strewn with corpses.

DENMARK.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The following statistics of book production are compiled by the Royal Danish Library and are based on the legal registry. These figures are for April 1st to March 31st:

	1910-11	1911-12	1912-13
Theology	304	341	361
Law	30	34	43
Medicine	122	105	115
Philosophy	71	79	35
Pedagogy	155	158	146
Politics	62	61	60
Fine Arts	96	175	103
Natural Sciences	267	257	281
Technology	181	199	244
Architecture, military engineering	47	53	45
History and Foreign Geography	87	115	115
History and Domestic Geography	769	808	802
Memoirs	183	174	178
Linguistics	101	81	100
History of Literature	73	83	75
Belles-Lettres	737	898	812
Sports	20	12	17
Total	3,305	3,633	3,532

There has been a slight decline particularly in the branches of philosophy, pedagogy, fine arts and belles-lettres. Otherwise one is impressed with the uniformity of the figures for these three years and with the increase in certain branches (theology, law, technology).

The number of pamphlets comprised in the total figure (3,537) is not given this year (1912, 1,188), nor is the number of translations classified except in the case of belles-lettres where the publications are divided according to language. Aside from 546 Danish publications (1910, 503; 1911, 561) and 31 Islandic publications (1910, 7; 1911, 37), there were 235 translations (1910, 227; 1911, 300). These are classified by language as follows:

	1910	1911	1912
Translations from the English	103	123	96
" " " German	54	67	58
" " " French	39	61	45
" " " Swedish	10	22	12
" " other languages	10	22	24

STATISTICS OF PERIODICALS.

The statistics of the press show that there are 1,314 periodicals of which 278 are devoted to general topics, 269 to matters of national interest, 223 theological, 222 technical, 64 political and 39 pedagogical journals.

SPAIN.

The statistics in the table on the following page are from the Bibliografia Española of March 16, 1913.

This table shows an ascending scale in book production interrupted only in 1908 and in 1910 by slight setbacks. The average production has been surpassed each year since 1909. We have also estimated the averages by subject. Literature and the social sciences which contain the most subdivisions are at the head, representing 57% of the total production. Applied science, general works, religious publications, works of theosophy and mysticism follow.

The statistics for Spain are confined entirely to the national production, for neither foreign books published in Spain nor works, in the Spanish language published elsewhere are included.

FRANCE.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

Statistics of the French book production shown in the table on the following page are made up from the Bibliographie de la France.

The decrease which appears here in books and pamphlets (-92) is shown again but in a more marked degree (-649), in the detailed statistics which we have taken from the Table systématique de la Bibliographie de la France,

SPANISH BOOK PRODUCTION, 1903–12.

Of books printed in foreign languages, those in Spanish lead (85); other languages follow in this order: English, 34; Portuguese, 20; Provençal, 13; Breton, 11; Esperanto, 10; German, 9; Russian 9; and Italian, 5.

The following tables illustrate the progressive movement in the foreign booktrade of France:

HUNGARY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The Magyar Köngvkereskedök for 1912, published by the Hungarian Association of Booksellers contains the following statistics of Hungarian works published in the kingdom in 1912:

Collections, history of literature, bibliography	108
Theology	105
Legal and political sciences	376
Medicine	62
Natural sciences	66
Philosophy	24
Education, pedagogy, scholastic manuals	141
Juveniles, illustrated books	60
Linguistics	115
Greek and Roman classics	10
History, biography, memoirs, correspondence, mythology	120
Geography, ethnography, travel, maps	67
Mathematics, astronomy, technology	68
Military science, sport	22
Commercial sciences	79
Agriculture, domestic economy, forestry, hunting	97
Poetry	66
Fiction, novelettes, humorous writings	239
Stage, drama	118
Almanacs, annuals	29
Miscellaneous	60
Total	2,032

We are in hopes that this bibliographical review will be continued so that we may be able to make useful comparisons with regard to the development of Hungarian literature. It would be interesting also to obtain statistics of the number of works published in Hungary in foreign tongues, especially in German, which is spoken in certain districts as in Transylvania and used by many Hungarian scholars with a view to giving their publications wider circulation.

In the second part of the Annual is a classified list of the newspapers and reviews which have appeared in 1912. This list contains 1,435 titles showing a wide range of subjects.

The third part of the Annual contains the names and addresses of 398 Hungarian booksellers and publishers of books, music and artistic work, belonging to the bookseller's association. 281 other firms have not yet become members. The ranks of this body will undoubtedly increase to meet the intellectual needs of 21 million people.

ITALY.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

At first glance the following table would seem to indicate that the book production of 1912 has surpassed that of 1911 by 365 publications:

Year	Total	New Editions	New Periodicals	Music Publishers
1906	6822	446	723	—
1907	7040	416	277	—
1908	6918	416	332	—
1909	6833	536	318	—
1910	6788	562	387	—
1911	10929	614	327	779
1912	11294	652	587	797

However, in analyzing the figures for 1912, we discover that academic documents and new political papers have been included. If the corresponding figures for 1911 were added, the total for that year would be 11,315 publications, a surplus of 21 publications over 1912. Otherwise the number of new editions has been greater by 38 in 1912 than in 1911.

The book production as a whole has remained almost the same in spite of the war in Tripoli which appears to have inspired the poets, while by its actual horrors, it has dulled the imagination of the novelists. Works of physical and medical science have increased as is natural. The increase in scholastic manuals and philosophical works is more remarkable. On the other hand, educational works have decreased in number as well as those on religion and technology.

Fine Arts	347	372
Agriculture, industrial and commercial arts	1,056	955
New political papers	327	229
Total	11,315	11,294

Of the 11,294 publications, 10,911 appeared in Italian, 169 in French, 135 in Latin, 30 in English, 18 in Greek, and 10 in Spanish.

Translations during 1912 amounted to 418 (in 1910, 435; in 1911, 461); 173 of these were from the French (in 1910, 204; in 1911, 235), 101 from the German (in 1910, 89; in 1911, 97), 67 from English (65 in 1910; in 1911, 63); 20 from Latin, 27 from Greek, 9 from Spanish, 9 from Russian and two from each of the following languages: Swedish, Sanscrit, Arabic, Hebrew, and one from Dutch, Danish, Polish, and Hungarian.

The official record of copyright registrations as published by the Bollettino della proprietà intellettuale gives the total number of registrations for 1912 as 2,090 against 2,121 in 1911.

LUXEMBURG.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

The book production of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg increased slightly in 1912, and presents a certain analogy with that of 1909. This is apparent from the following statistics which Tony Keller has compiled from the bibliography published by the monthly review Ons Hemecht:

	1909	1910	1911	1912
Books and pamphlets	73	97	59	74
Extracts from newspapers and reviews	36	29	25	33
Government publications	50	58	49	63
Publications by Luxemburg authors and publications about Luxemburg which have appeared elsewhere	42	36	20	26
Works privately printed	2	2	3	1

The number of periodicals has been increased by 7 reviews and one fortnightly journal.

THE NETHERLANDS.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

Brinkman's Alphabetische Lijst van Boeken, Landkaarten, published at Leyden by A. W. Sitjthoff, is the source of the statistics in the following table:

	1911	1912
Works (reviews, collections, dictionaries)	56	58
Protestant theology, history and ecclesiastical law	132	145
Books on protestantism, religious, missionary and philanthropical teachings	195	185
Roman Catholic theology, history, and ecclesiastical law	123	121
Law, legislation	198	220
Political science, statistical science	190	184
Commerce, navigation, industry, trades, domestic economy	213	233
History, archeology, heraldry, biography	110	124
Geography, ethnography	94	113
Medicine, hygiene, veterinary art	131	126
Natural sciences and chemistry (pharmacy)	130	132
Agriculture	62	56
Mathematics, cosmography, astronomy and meteorolgy	68	75
Architecture, hydraulics, mechanics	87	113
Military science and administration	74	51
Fine Arts	220	189
Philosophy, free masonry	57	61
Education and instruction	137	125
Manuals for elementary education	213	227
Linguistics, general literature, bibliography	40	39
Languages, oriental and ancient literature	50	71
Modern languages and literature	224	218
Poetry	41	51
Fiction, novelettes, reviews and annuals	268	254
Drama, stage	160	213
Juveniles, picture books	303	335
Popular books, sports, miscellaneous	[illegible]	80
Total	[illegible]	799

The total is almost the same as that of the year 1910 (3,777); it surpasses that of 1911 by 126 titles only. The most noticeable changes are to be found in dramatic works (+53), and books for children (+32). The only marked decrease (-31) is in the division of Fine Arts. It would by mere conjecture, however, to draw any conclusions from these figures. The Netherlands' first entire year under the Union will be 1913.

POLAND.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

Just as Polish publishers form an independent group in the organization of the International Congress of Publishers, they possess a bibliography apart; and in spite of the difference in frontier politics, they form a homogeneous association.

According to data collected by Mr. Rulikowski, the production of Polish books reached in 1909, 3,415 works, in 1910, 3,812, and in 1911, 3,436. These figures include, it is true, not only works written in the Polish tongue and published in other countries, but also those written about Poland as well as translations of Polish works, facts which explain the largeness of these figures. Of the 10,663 works thus recorded, 9,951 appeared in the Polish language. They were published in 87 localities in 1909, 93 in 1910, and 105 in 1911. Warsaw held first place in book production (1,369 works in 1909, 1,571 in 1910, and 1,224 in 1911), followed by Crakow and Lemberg.

SWITZERLAND.

BOOK PRODUCTION.

While the number of periodicals appearing in the Confederation is known exactly (in 1912, 1,519), a very regrettable uncertainty exists with regard to the annual book production.

The minimum figure is that indicated by the German statistics above noted, according to which, 1,006 works were published in Switzerland in 1912 in the German language, one of the four national languages. The maximum figure is furnished by the Swiss national library which records its yearly accessions of books and pamphlets. Publications of more than 100 pages are counted as books; those of from 4 to 100 pages, as pamphlets. Unfortunately these accessions are not classified according to the date of publication, but are divided into two groups, those which appeared before 1901 and those issued later. The latter group is added to each year principally by works published during the past year, but the exact number of them is not indicated. We simply have these figures: in the second group (works published since 1901), there were 3,217 books and 5,248 pamphlets, that is 8,465 works acquired by 1911 and 3,081 books and 6,975 pamphlets, or 10,056 works acquired by 1912 (+1,591). This last figure approximates the book production of the year.

It must be borne in mind that these figures include such writings as the reports, accounts, circulars, statutes, and programs of societies and universities, about 700 in all, besides numerous occasional publications which cannot be strictly classed as books.

It is to be hoped that the National Exposition to be opened at Berne in 1914 to review the productive sources of the country in general will stimulate an interest in bibliography, and that Switzerland may follow the example of other nations in keeping more detailed records of her intellectual achievements.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR 1912-1913.

THE following is a summary of the report of Thorvald Solberg, the Register of Copyrights for the United States, for the fiscal year July 1st, 1912 to June 30th, 1912.

RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts during the year were $118,968.26. A balance of $7,335.41, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1912, making a total of $126,303.67 to be accounted for. Of this amount the sum of $3,013.52 received by the Copyright Office was refunded as excess fees or as fees for articles not registrable, leaving a net balance of $123,290.15. The balance carried over to July 1, 1913, was $8,309.55 (representing trust funds, $7,309.01, and total unfinished business since July 1, 1897—16 years —$1,000.54), leaving fees applied during the fiscal year 1912-13, $114,980.60.

EXPENDITURES.

The appropriation made by Congress for salaries in the Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, was $96,715.00. The total expenditures for salaries was $96,523.14, or $18,457.46 less than the net amount of fees earned and paid into the Treasury during the corresponding year. The expenditure for supplies, including stationery and other articles and postage on foreign mail matter, etc., was $1,121.85.

During the 16 fiscal years since the reorganization of the Copyright Office (from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1913) the total receipts have exceeded one and a quarter million dollars ($1,370,130.08); the copyright fees applied and paid into the Treasury have amounted to more than a million and a quarter dollars ($1,304,647.30); the articles deposited number more than three million (3,017,286), and the total copyright registrations over one and a half million (1,697,227).

The fees ($1,304,647.30) were larger than the appropriation for salaries ($1,101,658.11) used during the same period by $202,989.19.

In addition to this direct profit, a large number of the 3,017,286 books, maps, prints, and other articles deposited during the 16 years were of substantial pecuniary value and of such a character that their accession to the Library of Congress through the Copyright Office effected a saving to the purchase fund of the Library equal in amount to their price.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES AND FEES.

The registrations for the fiscal year numbered 119,495. Of these 107,151 were registrations at $1 each, including a certificate, and 11,279 were registrations of photographs without certificates, at 50 cents each. There were also 1,065 registrations of renewals at 50 cents each. The fees for these registrations amounted to a total of $113,323.00.

The number of registrations in each class from July 1, 1912, to June 30, 1913, as compared with the number of entries made in the previous year, is shown in Exhibit F.

COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS.

The various articles deposited in compliance with the new copyright law which have been registered, stamped, indexed, and catalogued during the fiscal year amount to 215,595. The number of these articles in each class for the 16 fiscal years is shown in Exhibit G.

The copyright act which went into force on July 1, 1909, provides for the gradual elimination of the accumulated copyright deposits (see secs. 59 and 60).* During the year books desired for the Library to the number of 5,517 volumes have been transferred to the Library through the Order Division. These volumes were in addition to the "first" copies of copyright books sent as received from day to day, numbering 13,395 for the fiscal year, thus making a total of 18,912 books and pamphlets delivered to the Library from the Copyright Office.

In addition to the current copies of maps, musical works, periodicals, photographs, and prints sent daily to the various Divisions of the Library from the Copyright Office (3,980 maps, 23,635 musical compositions, 39,241 periodicals, and 8,523 photographs and prints), 8,716 articles (maps, music, and periodicals) were transferred to the Library from the deposits received prior to July 1, 1909.

The act of March 4, 1909 (sec. 59), provides for the transfer to other governmental libraries in the District of Columbia "for use therein" of such copyright deposits as are not required by the Library of Congress, and during the present fiscal year 9,215 books were selected by the librarians and thus transferred to the libraries of the Bureau of Education, Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Standards, Department of Agriculture, War Department, Interstate Commerce Commission, Naval Observatory, Surgeon General's Office, Navy Department, Department of Justice, Weather Bureau, and the Public Library of the District of Columbia.

Under the provisions of the act of March 4, 1909, authority is granted for the return to the claimant of copyright of such copyright deposits as are not required by the Library. The notice required by section 60 has been printed during the year for all classes of works deposited and registered during the years 1890 to 1899, but no requests have so far been received to enable the return of articles. On the other hand, in response to special requests, 66 dramatic or musical compositions and 380 motion picture films have been returned to the copyright claimants, and of the current deposits not needed by the Library of Congress the following have also been so returned, 12,333 "books" (pamphlets, leaflets, etc.), 4,312 photographs, 20,658 prints, 5,932 contributions to periodicals, 14,490 periodicals; a total of 58,171 articles.

In response to inquiries during the year from the Card Section, the Order Division, and the Reading Room, in regard to 724 books

*SEC. 59. That of the articles deposited in the Copyright Office under the provisions of the copyright laws of the United States or of this act, the Librarian of Congress shall determine what books and other articles shall be transferred to the permanent collections of the Library of Congress, including the law library, and what other books or articles shall be placed in the reserve collections of the Library of Congress for sale or exchange or be transferred to other governmental libraries in the District of Columbia for use therein.

SEC. 60. That of any articles undisposed of as above provided, together with all titles and correspondence relating thereto, the Librarian of Congress and the register of copyrights jointly shall, at suitable intervals, determine what of those received during any period of years it is desirable or useful to preserve in the permanent files of the Copyright Office, and, after due notice as hereinafter provided, may within their discretion cause the remaining articles and other things to be destroyed: Provided, That there shall be printed in the Catalogue of Copyright Entries from February to November, inclusive, a statement of the years of receipt of such articles and a notice to permit any author, copyright proprietor, or other lawful claimant to claim and remove before the expiration of the month of December of that year anything found which relates to any of his productions deposited or registered for copyright within the period of years stated, not reserved or disposed of as provided for in this act: And provided urther, That no manuscript of an unpublished work shall be destroyed during its term of copyright without specific notice to the copyright proprietor of record, permitting him to claim and remove it.

supposed to be copyrighted but not found in the Library, it was discovered that 85 of these works were already in the Library, 99 of the books had been deposited and were still in the Copyright Office, 108 works were either not published, did not claim copyright, or for other reasons could not be deposited, and in the case of 165 works no answers to our letters of inquiry had been received up to June 30, 1913. Copies were received of 267 works in all in response to request made by the Copyright Office during the period of 12 months for works published during recent years.

THE COPYRIGHT INDEX AND CATALOGUE, BULLETINS, AND CIRCULARS.

The copyright registrations are indexed upon cards. The cards made are first used as copy for the printed catalogue and after printing are added to the permanent card indexes of the copyright entries. The temporary cards made for the printed indexes, etc., to the catalogue (numbering 85,095 during the fiscal year) are eliminated; the remaining cards (114,085 for the fiscal year) are added to the permanent card indexes, now numbering considerably over 2,600,000 cards. By revision and condensation 10,500 cards were canceled and withdrawn from the indexes during the year.

The publication of the Catalogue of Copyright Entries has been continued as required by law. For convenience of search the volumes are made to cover the works published and deposited during the calendar year rather than the fiscal year. Five volumes of the Catalogue of Copyright Entries were printed for the calendar year 1912, containing a total of 7,415 pages, divided as follows: Part I, Group 1, Books, volume 9, contains 1,472 pages of text and 443 pages of index, a total of 1,915 pages; Part I, Group 2, Pamphlets, leaflets, contributions to periodicals, lectures, dramas, maps, etc., volume 9, contains 1,254 pages of text and 586 pages of index, a total of 1,840 pages; Part II, Periodicals, volume 7, contains 373 pages of text and 83 pages of index, a total of 456 pages; Part III, Music, volume 7, contains 1,683 pages of text and 832 pages of index, a total of 2,515 pages; Part IV, Fine Arts, etc., volume 7, contains 629 pages of text and 60 pages of index, a total of 689 pages.

Each part of the catalogue is sold separately at a nominal annual subscription rate within the maximum price established by law, as follows:

Part I, Books, pamphlets, dramatic compositions, and maps (two volumes), $1; Part II, Periodicals, 50 cents; Part III, Musical compositions (a very bulky volume), $1; Part IV, Prints, including chromos and lithographs, photographs, and the descriptions of original works of art—paintings, drawings, and sculpture—50 cents. The price for the entire catalogue for the year is $3. The subscriptions, by express provisions of the copyright act, are required to be paid to the Superintendent of Documents (Office of the Public Printer, Washington, D. C.), and all subscriptions must be for the complete year for each part desired.

During the fiscal year a new edition of the copyright law was printed in order to include the provisions of the first amendatory act, approved August 24, 1912, providing for the copyright registration of motion pictures. (Bulletin No. 14. January, 1913. 52 pp. 8°.)

Information circulars were printed and distributed during the year as follows: The amendatory copyright act of August 24, 1912 (No. 47); the amendatory act of March 2, 1913, relating to certificate of copyright registration (No. 50); text of the copyright convention between the United States and Hungary, which went into effect on October 16, 1912 (No. 48); presidential copyright proclamation in respect to subjects of Tunis, October 4, 1912 (No. 49).

The considerable deposit of foreign books made under the operation of the present copyright law adds a new element of value to the catalogue of copyrighted books. More than four thousand volumes were deposited in 1912-13 of books printed in languages other than English, and nearly two hundred volumes of books printed abroad in the English language were registered for ad interim protection.

COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION AND INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT RELATIONS.

I. Legislation.

My last year's report contained a full and detailed statement of proposed amendments of the copyright act of March 4, 1909. The Townsend bill (H. R. 24224, 62d Cong., 2d sess.) was passed by the House on June 17, 1912, and by the Senate* on August 19th, and was approved and became law on August 24th. It includes motion-picture photoplays, as class "1" in the schedule of subject matter of copyright, and "motion pictures other than photoplays," as class "m," and amends section 11 to provide for the registration of claims to copyright in such motion pictures. The amendatory act also adds "dramatico-musical compositions" to the list of works "of which copies are not reproduced for sale," which may be registered for copyright, under the provisions of section 11. The full text of this amendatory act is printed on pages 167-169 of this report. The bill to amend section 55 of the act of March 4, 1909, introduced on March 26, 1912, by Mr. Morrison, of the House Committee on Patents, was passed, after amendment as proposed by the committee, by the House on July 15, 1912, and by the Senate on February 28, 1913,† and was signed by the President on March 2, 1913. The full text is printed on pages 169-170 of this report.

The following copyright bills were introduced during the present fiscal year. On July 8, 1912, by Mr. John H. Stephens, of Texas, a bill (H. R. 25629)‡ to provide for international reciprocity in regard to patents and copyrights. The text of this bill is identical with H. R. 5882, of March 29, 1909, which was printed in my annual report for 1908-9, pages 90-91. On April 7, 1913, the same bill with identical text was reintroduced by Mr. Stephens, of Texas, in the first session of the 63d Congress, as H. R. 11.§ On April 7, 1913, Mr. Luther W. Mott presented a bill (H. R. 186)¶ to amend sections 5 and 28 of the act of March 4, 1909. This is identical with the bill (H. R. 24925, 62d Cong., 2d sess.) which was printed in my annual report for 1911-12, page 179. No action has been taken upon these bills.

Under the law now in force in order to obtain adequate protection for the design of any artistic article of manufacture, it is necessary to take action under the provisions of the design-patent legislation (Revised Statutes, sec. 4929, and the amendatory act of March 9, 1902), providing that "Any person who has invented any new, original, and ornamental design for an article of manufacture . . . may obtain a patent therefor."

The procedure is the same as that in the case of letters patent generally, involving careful and extensive search to determine all the facts required by the law; a design patent depending on proof (1) of originality, (2) that the design was not known or used by others in this country before its invention by the claimant, (3) that is was not patented or described before its invention, and (4) that it was not in public use or on sale in this country for more than two years prior to the claimant's application. The design patent may be granted in the course of two or three months from the date of filing the application in the Patent Office. The statutory fees are $10, $15 or $30, depending upon the term of protection secured, i. e., either 3 years and

6 months, 7 years, or 14 years. The registrations actually made for design patents from 1902 to 1911 varied from 640 in 1902 to 1,010 in 1911, with an average annual registration of but 652.*

The small number of registrations made is no doubt due to the difficulty of registration, the unavoidable delay, and the considerable cost involved.

While patent protection may continue to be sought in the case of models and designs for certain articles, it seems clear that there is urgent need for legislation to secure protection for the great proportion of artistic designs for manufactured articles by means of a simpler procedure, greater facility of registration, and a reduced cost. This protection it is believed could be obtained by copyright. The present copyright law approved March 4, 1909, expressly provides that it shall "include all the writings of an author"; and the schedule of works subject matter of copyright contains also the following two classes of works: "(g) works of art; models or designs for works of art," "(i) drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character."

Under these classifications claims to copyright in artistic designs for articles of manufacture are occasionally registered in the Copyright Office. While such claim of copyright may fully protect the design as a drawing, there is difference of opinion as to the complete protection of the design when it is embodied in the manufactured article against the unauthorized reproduction of the article itself. Lawyers whose opinions would carry great weight hold, however, that the copyright law can readily be so amended as to secure the protection desired for all artistic designs for articles to be multiplied by some industrial process.

In the case of copyright, as there is no grant of the right but simply a registration of the claim, the procedure may be simple, action prompt, and the official fee relatively small. The present copyright fee for each article registered is $1, including a certificate of registration. The argument for the inclusion of designs of the character in question in the protection secured by the copyright law is that of their artistic authorship. It is the artistic invention which would be protected in behalf of its author as shown either in the decoration or ornamentation or in the artistic shape or configuration.

In France artistic designs of the character in question are brought within the protection of the general copyright law by the Act of March 11, 1902, amending the basic copyright act of 1793 to the effect that the rights secured by that act shall belong to the designer of any ornament "whatever may be the merit or the destination of the work." Detailed provisions for deposit and registration are authorized by a subsequent act. It is believed that an amendment of the copyright law of the United States is called for to secure the protection of ornamental designs for articles of manufacture, to provide suitable remedies in case of infringement, and to prescribe a sufficient but reasonably economical registration in behalf of the numerous American and foreign draftsmen engaged in the preparation of such designs; and also to provide the manufacturers of such articles with the necessary protection against infringement.

II. International Copyright Relations.

A copyright agreement between the United States and Hungary was signed at Budapest on January 30, 1912. This convention went into force October 16, 1912. The full text is printed as Addendum IV, page 227.

On October 4, 1912, the President issued a proclamation to the effect that subjects of Tunis are entitled to all the benefits of the copyright act of March 4, 1909, and the amendatory act of August 24, 1912, except copyright controlling the mechanical reproduction of a copyrighted musical work, provided for under section 1 (e) of the act of March 4, 1909.

Presidential proclamations under the provisions of section 1 (e) have now been issued in behalf of Germany (Dec. 8, 1910); Belgium, Luxemburg, and Norway (June 14, 1911); Cuba (Nov. 27, 1911); and Hungary (Oct. 15, 1912).

*Report of the Commissioner of Patents for 1911, p. vi.

The new copyright law which went into effect in Denmark on July 1, 1912, repealed the former copyright legislation of that country. The provisions of the law apply to all works by Danish subjects and to all works by foreign authors or subjects of foreign countries which have been published by Danish publishers or by some other method have been distributed for the first time in Denmark. The new Danish law further provides that upon a basis of reciprocal protection the benefits of the Danish act may, by royal decree, be made available for such works as are published by subjects of a foreign country, even when such works have not appeared through a Danish publisher. On February 22, 1913, the King of Denmark issued such royal decrees extending the benefits conferred by the Danish law of April 1, 1912. in regard to literary and artistic works and the law of May 13, 1911, concerning photographs, to such works by subjects of the United States, whether unpublished, or first published in the United States.

The United States signed at Buenos Aires on August 11, 1910, the Fourth Pan-American "Convention Concerning Literary and Artistic Copyright." This convention, with the advice and consent of the Senate, was ratified on the part of the United States and the ratifications were deposited with the Argentine Republic in accordance with the requirements of the convention. Official notice has been received that this convention has been ratified by Honduras (Jan. 30, 1913) and Panama (Mar. 13, 1913). This convention, however, has not yet been put in force.

The interest in the judicial interpretation of the provisions of the new copyright statute continues, and the more important decisions handed down during the year are printed as Addendum II, pages 171–217.

Mr. Bruncken, the Assistant Register, has compiled a brief digest of the Opinions of the Attorneys General and of the Treasury Decisions concerning copyright, importation of books, etc., which is printed as Addendum III, pages 219–226.

Respectfully submitted,

THORVALD SOLBERG,
Register of Copyrights.

COPYRIGHT EVENTS AND LEADING AMERICAN CASES IN 1913.

The following schedule, continuing the chronological table of cases for previous years in Bowker's "Copyright," and the similar summary for 1912 in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and the AMERICAN LIBRARY ANNUAL, gives leading American copyright cases decided or recorded in 1913, together with a list of principal events in legislation and treaty relations. Cases of minor importance, settling no principle, but dealing only with details of procedure or applying settled principles to specific cases, are not covered. The schedule covers the name of the court, the name of the judge presiding or giving the opinion, reference to the law report, if the case is reported, and to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY report, and also a condensed statement of the points decided, with page reference to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY report.

Injunction restraining appellant from using name "Nick Carter" in connection with moving pictures dissolved and complainants' bill dismissed for want of equity.

Beifeld v. Dodge Publishing Co. U. S. C. C., S. D., N. Y. J. Ward. 198 F. R. 658. P. W., 84:2208 (December 27, 1913.)

The sketch made for a copyrighted painting, executed for plaintiff, could not be published without infringing plaintiff's copyright.

Crown Feature Film Co. v. Levy, et al. U. S. D. C., S. D., N. Y. J. Mayer. 202 F. R. 805. P. W., 84:2207 (December 27, 1913.)

Demurrer sustained because of insufficient proof of ownership and registration.

Davies v. Bowes. U. S. D. C. J. Hough. P. W., 84 (November 29, 1913.

A fiction published as actual news is non-copyrightable.

Journal Publishing Co. v. Drake et al. U. S. C. C. App. 199 F. R. 572. P. W., 84:2208 (December 27, 1913.)

Under law previous to 1909, the penalty of $1 for each infringement was held to apply to each of two infringements printed on one sheet, in copies found in defendant's possession; held also that "unlawful intent" is presumable from proved copying of copyrighted photograph without consent.

Lydiard-Peterson Co. v. Woodman. U. S. C. C. App. J. McPherson. 204 F. R. 921. P. W., 84:2204 (December 27, 1913.)

Map in pocket of book need not be separately copyrighted. Previous decision affirmed.

New York Times Co. v. Star Co. U.S.C.C. App. J. Coxe. P. W., 83:1391 (Ap. 19, 1913.)

Previous decision affirmed that Congress has power to restrict the maintenance of action and injunction cannot be issued until two copies are deposited.

G. Ricordi & Co. v. Mason. U. S. C. C., S. D., N. Y. J. Coxe. 204 F. R. 586. U. S. D. C., S. D., N. Y. J. Hazel. 201 F. R. 182.

In refusing preliminary injunction, Judge Coxe, and after trial, Judge Hazel, held that mere sketches of opera plots, in "Opera Stories," were not under reasonable interpretation of the phrase "to make any version thereof," infringement of copyrighted librettos, and therefore denied relief.

Straus v. American Publishers' Association, et al. U. S. S. C. J. Day. P. W., 84:1934 (December 6, 1913.)

Copyright as well as patent property is not excepted from the provision of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law against monopoly; and combinations in this field are also unlawful.

THE "BEST SELLERS" OF 1913.

The "Bookman's" Comments on its Annual Summary of Its Monthly Lists of Six Best Sellers.*

This is the fourteenth January issue in which we have been compiling what some one rather flippantly calls our "All America Team" of "best selling" books. These annual stories of the lists have unquestionably shown some inconsistencies, there have been individual reports that may have been inspired, that we strongly suspect have been inspired, but the general summing up, especially since the adoption of the point system some twelve years ago, proves beyond question that these reports, when taken in bulk, are thoroughly reliable. Now that so many years have passed it is not indiscreet to tell of the instance that led to the adoption of the point system. Once upon a time Mr. Irving Bacheller's "Eben Holden" and Mr. Maurice Thompson's "Alice of Old Vincennes" were running a close race for leading honours as the "best seller" of the hour. It was the Bookman's custom then to rank the book mentioned most times in the book sellers' lists first, without taking into consideration whether a mention was at the top of a list or at the bottom. It happened that when making up the "six best" for a certain month "Alice of Old Vincennes" and "Eben Holden" were found to have exactly the same number of mentions. So the fairest course seemed to be to bracket the two for first and second positions. But this method satisfied no one. Within a few hours after the appearance of the magazine we received, almost simultaneously, telegrams from the publishers of both books asking by what strange system of reasoning we had reached the conclusion that the novel brought out by the other firm should be conceded equality. We have always been grateful for that second telegram. We forget which one it was, but we take this occasion to extend belated thanks both in the direction of Boston and of Indianapolis.

Before taking up the story of the books of 1913 and their progress in the lists we wish to offer an explanation that may incidentally lead to a little better "team work" on the part of the forty or fifty booksellers throughout the country who supply these lists. From publishing houses we are continually receiving protests that are certainly not without a measure of justification. For example, a few weeks ago there came from the Century Company of New York, an exceedingly courteous communication pointing out that Miss Jean Webster's "Daddy-Long-Legs" had, in a certain list, been classed as a juvenile, whereas it is really not a juvenile at all. We are quite ready to concede that "Daddy-Long-Legs" should have appeared under the head of fiction, but what could we possibly do in the matter? It will be quite obvious that we had no right whatever to make a change in these lists. Even if we had such a right how would it be possible to make the readjustment? Were we to take "Daddy-Long-Legs" from the juveniles and incorporate it in the fiction list, what would be our justification for dropping any one of the six works of fiction sent in by the bookseller? We are quite ready to concede that author and publisher have the right to feel just a trifle exasperated when they see their book wrongly classed. But if we arbitrarily remedied the mistake in a way that dropped some other book entirely from the list, another author and publisher would be justified in feeling a far greater grievance. We do not feel that we have the right to question the honesty of these lists as they come in. We are conscious of occasional inaccuracies, and yet, in the main, we believe implicitly in the good faith of our correspondents. In return we ask of them in the future a greater care and a heartier cooperation.

According to the list in our issue for December, 1912, the leading book was Harold Bell Wright's "Their Yesterdays," followed very closely by George Barr McCutcheon's "The Hollow of Her Hand," and Rex Beach's "The Net." Mr. Wright's book was again the leader for the first month of 1913. The other books in the January list were, in order, Mr. Beach's "The Net," Mary Waller's "A Cry in the Wilderness," Frances Little's "The Lady and Sada San," Mr. McCutcheon's "The Hollow of Her Hand," and Mary Johnston's "Cease Firing. The six books of that month were unusually close in the race in the matter of total points, only sixty-four points separating "Their Yesterdays" and "Cease Firing." With the February list three of the books of the preceding month dropped back from their positions among the leaders. Mr. Wright's book was again in first place, but it was being hard pressed by a newcomer, Ralph Connor's "Corporal Cameron." Two other newcomers were Miss Rives's "The Valiants of Virginia," and Henry Van Dyke's "The Unknown Quantity." "The Lady and Sada San," and "Cease Firing" were still in the running, Frances Little's book being in third place, and Miss Johnston's tied for fifth place. As was the case with the January issue all the books were closely grouped.

It was a different story with the list for March. The three leaders, "The Valiants of Virginia," "Corporal Cameron" and "Their Yesterdays," were far out in front with totals of 232 points, 204 points, and 200 points respectively. These were the only real contenders, but to fill out the list the other three places were held by "The Lady and Sada San," "Cease Firing," and "A Cry in the Wilderness." With April, however, came radical changes. Mr. A. S. M. Hutchinson's "The Happy Warrior" held first place, followed by "The Valiants of Virginia." In third position was Maria Thompson Daviess's "Andrew the Glad," while Elizabeth Robins's widely discussed "My Little Sister" was fourth. As had been the case in the February number there was a tie for the last two places, the contending books this time being Helen R. Martin's "The Parasite" and Ralph Connor's "Corporal Cameron." With May more changes. "The Happy Warrior," the April leader, had dropped out entirely, and "The Valiants of Virginia" had slipped back to last place. With a point total of 349, so far the highest of the year, John Fox's "The Heart of the Hills" was in first position. Two other new books, Jeffery Farnol's "The Amateur Gentleman" and Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Judgment House," were second and third with 250 and 248 points respectively. Again it was a case of the real race being between the three leaders. The combined point total of the books in fourth, fifth and sixth places was considerably less than the point total of "The Heart of the Hills," and very little more than the point total of "The Amateur Gentleman," or the point total of "The Judgment House."

The three leaders of the May list were again the leaders in the June number, but in inverted order. First came "The Judgment House," with 379 points, then "The Amateur Gentleman, with 313 points, and then "The Heart of the Hills," with 310 points. Three new books struggled along rather hopelessly in fourth, fifth and sixth places: W. J. Locke's "Stella Maris," Mrs. Humphry Ward's "The Mating of Lydia," and Gouverneur Morris's "The Penalty." There was a more equal division in the matter of points in the July issue. "The Judgment House" was again the leader, and "The Amateur Gentleman" was again second. But "The Heart of the Hills" had to be content with fourth place, giving way to Mr. Henry Sydnor Harrison's "V. V.'s Eyes." "Stella Maris" was fifth, and Ellen Glasgow's "Virginia" sixth. "V. V.'s Eyes" had taken third place rather impressively in July, and in August it went to the front with a surprising total of 435 points. At that it was not so far ahead of a newcomer, Mr. Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup." These books were making all the running with the rest nowhere. But just to indicate their vitality we record that "The Judgment House" was third, "The Heart of the Hills" fourth, and "The Amateur Gentleman" fifth. Inconspicuously, in sixth place, was Mr. Joseph C. Lincoln's "Mr. Pratt's Patients."

Four hundred and thirty-nine was the highest point total attained during 1913. It was achieved in the September list by "V. V.'s Eyes," which had led the preceding month with 435 points. Again in September Mr. Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup" was second, and again the race was entirely between the two leaders. Mr. Thomas Dixon's "The Southerner" was third, "The Judgment House" fourth, "The Heart of the Hills" fifth, and Eleanor H. Porter's "Pollyanna" sixth. With the October list the race tightened up. By a meagre three points "V. V.'s Eyes" held the lead over a newcomer, Gene Stratton-Porter's "Laddie," which in turn was 16 points in advance of "The Inside of the Cup." A "best seller" whose name is usually found in the autumn lists reappeared in the person of Mr. Rex Beach, whose novel, "The Iron Trail," held fourth place, while our old friend from the Isle of Man contributed to the list with "The Woman Thou Gavest Me." Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Judgment House" was sixth, this being the sixth consecutive month in which that book had appeared on the list.

The autumn books were now fairly in their swing. November saw Mrs. Stratton-Porter's "Laddie" leading "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" by a margin of three points. The figures were respectively 331 and 328. "The Inside of the Cup" was but seventeen points behind Mr. Hall Caine's book. "The Iron Trail" was fourth with 221 points, and "V. V.'s Eyes," in view of its leadership in August, September and October, a rather poor fifth with 136 points. Sixth place in the November list went to Robert Hichens's "The Way of Ambition." With characteristic vitality (vitality in the matter of popularity) Mr. Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup" "came back" with the list for December. Second in August and September, and third in October and November, it now took the lead for the first time by a margin of 20 points. In the place position was "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" with 275 points, followed by "Laddie" with 252 points. Again "The Iron Trail" was fourth, and again "V. V.'s Eyes" was fifth. In sixth place was Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's "T. Tembarom."

In the lists for 1913 thirty books were represented as against twenty-seven for 1912, twenty-seven for 1911, thirty-two for 1910, twenty-nine for 1909, thirty-six for 1908, thirty for 1907, thirty for 1906, twenty-nine for 1905, thirty-one for 1904, thirty-two for 1903, twenty-eight for 1902, twenty-nine for 1901, and twenty-nine for 1900. There was no book that was published anonymously, and no book was the result of collaboration. Rex Beach had two books on the lists, "The Net" and "The Iron Trail," and counting him twice the representation was eighteen men and twelve women. Twenty-two of the books were written by American authors, for we claim both Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett and Elizabeth Robins. The six "best sellers" of the year, judged by the point system, were Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup," Henry Sydnor Harrison's "V. V.'s Eyes," John Fox's "The Heart of the Hills," Jeffery Farnol's "The Amateur Gentleman," Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Judgment House," and Gene Stratton-Porter's "Laddie."

With the names of the six "best sellers" of 1913 before us, it is a perfectly natural question to ask, Why this particular six rather than some other six? Have they any feature in common, any distinguishing mark that seems to differentiate them and justify, or at least explain their selection as the kind of fiction most in demand, the index to the popular taste of the hour? And, perfectly natural though it is, the question is likely to prove quite futile, until we realize that the six "best selling" books of the year or the month are not necessarily any indication whatever of popular taste. They may be, and then again, they may not, for the purchase of a copy of a book or of a million copies does not prove that the book purchased is necessarily read, or being read, necessarily liked. All that a "best seller" really does prove is that for the publisher and the bookseller it has been a more than usually profitable piece of merchandise. And that the chances are that in a good many cases the annual list of "best sellers" is likely to be misleading as to the taste of the reading public may be very briefly made clear.

The first thing that we notice about the six volumes immediately before us is that they are without exception the work of authors who already have at least one big success to their credit. Any one would know quite well whom we meant if, instead of mentioning the writers by name, we merely referred to them as "the author of Richard Carvel, of Queed, of The Right of Way, of The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come, of The Broad Highway, or of Freckles." In other words, it is a safe, conservative sort of list, the sort of books that you would feel you were running no very grave danger in recommending even without having read them. And that is precisely what is happening all the time, to a far greater extent than we are likely to realize. For instance, you are hurrying to catch a train, and you want something to read on your journey. You appeal to the bookseller, and he, knowing nothing of your tastes, does the easy, obvious thing; he shifts his responsibility to the shoulders of the general public. The general public has put the stamp of its approval upon certain author's past performances; well, if the book-seller can persuade you to buy on the strength of that approval, you can't blame him if you don't like the book. And in turn, you do exactly the same thing, when you hastily select a bon voyage packet of reading matter for Aunt Lavinia or little Mrs. Smith. The volumes that you pick out on the strength of their credentials may not be half so attractive or entertaining as others by utterly unknown writers; but you have no time for personal investigation; at all events they are books which the recipient ought to like, whether she does or not, and the choice gives you an air of intelligence. And since yours is quite a typical case, it is fair to assume that a goodly number of sales represent, not a book that some one definitely wanted, but merely a blind guess as to what some one else might or might not want.

Now, if we could be sure that the six volumes that make up the current year's "best seller" list really were a measure of the average standard of taste in fiction, it would be distinctly encouraging, for it would show a growing tendency to take good fiction with the seriousness that it deserves. But the fact that there were a number of other volumes quite as worthy of popularity, but coming from more obscure writers, which attracted little attention, while a fair amount of purely ephemeral reading matter hovered, time and again, upon the "best seller" border line, might go to support the theory sometimes advanced that these lists are deceptive. And when we come to examine the six books in question one by one, we realize rather keenly that in a few instances at least the authors have fallen distinctly short of their earlier achievements. An exception may be made in the case of "The Inside of the Cup," by Winston Churchill. There has always been a certain academic ponderousness about Mr. Churchill which has been a rather valuable asset. There are still a considerable number of staid and conservative persons, with an old-fashioned prejudice against fiction as a sad waste of time; but if daughters must read novels, why, Mr. Churchill is perhaps as safe as any of the modern school. The daughters would rather read Mr. Chambers or Mr. Oppenheim, and they very likely do; but meanwhile the prejudice of their elders has helped to swell the sales of Mr. Churchill's books. "The Inside of the Cup," however, is a rather special case. At irregular intervals, some writer, through genius or inspiration or superlative cleverness, happens to express in the form of fiction certain problems which for the time being lie very close to the consciences of the people. "Robert Elsmere" was a case in point. To-day we read Mrs. Humphry Ward's greatest popular success with something akin to wonder. Was it possible that this book could ever have aroused such widespread dissension and fierce polemics? The issues are cleverly put, but the fire behind them is burnt out; what a whole nation quarrelled over then, is to-day accepted commonplace. And so, in a measure, the same is true of Mr. Churchill's latest volume. He has treated very seriously what a large number of earnest, thinking people are inclined to treat very seriously; and hence, this volume, which twenty-five years hence will probably in its turn represent dead embers, does for the passing hour really and truly represent a certain phase of genuine popular demand.

We cannot feel nearly so confident in the case of "V. V.'s Eyes." It is not merely that there is something rather inadequate and futile in the plot, a sense that the one or two really worth while personages in the story are squandering their energies upon trying to save a number of other persons, who are not in the least worth while, from the well-merited consequences of their own follies; but in manner as well as in matter, the book rather frankly bored us. In point of style, it impresses us as having all the worst mannerisms of the mid-Victorian period, without the redeeming qualities. In a word, "V. V.'s Eyes" was dull, dreadfully dull. Of Mr. Gilbert Parker, it need only be said that he once wrote a big novel, "The Right of Way," and that the quality of his work as a whole is in inverse proportion to his propinquity to smart life and London drawing-rooms. A professional cynic, some years ago, rather cleverly characterised Richard Harding Davis's Van Bibber as "the office-boy's idea of a gentleman;" we are tempted to paraphrase the definition, and describe the fashionable women in Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Judgment House" as a shop-girl's idea of a lady.

Mr. John Fox, Jr., deserves the credit of being an unusually even author; it is a quality which he shares with another writer of widely different calibre, the late Marion Crawford. It is a comfortable thing to be able to assume safely that if you have read one volume by a certain writer, you will like his other works as a matter of course. Mr. Fox undoubtedly has his public, although it is hard to understand why it should be quite so wide a public as the holding of fourth place on the current list would indicate. Perhaps his is a case in which our above propounded theory in a measure applies. As for "The Amateur Gentleman," here is obviously a case of blind, sheep-like trailing in pursuit of a goal which it is of no special importance to attain. The whole modern revival of Borrowism, the more or less gypsy-like wanderings of more or less impossible and eccentric persons, has been a movement rather interesting to watch, from the detached, critical standpoint, and rather hard to follow, because of its somewhat sporadic outbursts. To our own way of thinking, the most useful purpose it has served is that of having given us one gem of the first water, "The Beloved Vagabond,"—and we are almost tempted to correct ourselves and say two gems, in order to include Mr. Hutchinson's recent "Happy Warrior," which in our opinion is easily worth everything that Mr. Farnol has yet written. As for "Laddie," there is a case where it is fairly easy to understand its popularity. Gene Stratton-Porter is not especially profound or erudite, excepting in regard to the lore of butterflies, but she is blythe, and kindly and wholesome, and her books all leave you with a sense of having enjoyed a pleasant hour or two of sojourn in the heart of some rolling, balsamic woodland, where the branches overhead are not too dense to keep the glad sunshine from filtering down in fine networks of pure gold. There is a tonic value to her books that is often missing from more serious and pretentious writings.

The Publishers' Weekly Consensus.

SPECIAL LIBRARIES—A REPORT ON FIFTY REPRESENTATIVE LIBRARIES

ARRANGED BY R. H. JOHNSTON, Librarian, Bureau of Railway Economics Library, Washington, D. C.

THE Special Libraries Association was formed during the summer of 1909 by a group of members of the American Library Association. Some of them had charge of small financial, commercial, and technical libraries identified, for the most part, with business offices.

Many of their problems could not be met by an association dealing with the broader questions, of interest primarily to the larger libraries. There was some doubt whether an organization of such heterogeneous interests could be made sufficiently coherent to develop any effective organization. And when, in 1911, following action of the Council of the American Library Association, the Special Libraries Association affiliated with the general association this doubt still persisted, since the Council then urged that the young association should become a section of the general body.

In the four years of its existence, however, the Special Libraries Association has grown from fifty or sixty persons to about three hundred. Of its last annual session it was said, "There was no more vital talk at the whole Kaaterskill conference than at its meetings." The association has demonstrated that it has a definite scope. It has done much to develop coöperation between special libraries. It has encouraged membership in and attendance at the meetings of the American Library Association. The Kaaterskill conference showed that the members of the American Library Association are interested in many of the topics discussed by the Special Libraries Association. Hence the affiliation has been of mutual benefit. But until some of the important questions of methods and coöperation peculiar to special libraries have been thoroughly threshed out, or have become problems to the general librarian also, the Special Libraries Association must maintain its separate organization.

It must not be expected, moreover, that a definition of the term "special library" will be readily formulated. The modern reference library—such, for example, as the Free Public Library of Newark—employs in many cases methods which make it as much a special library as that of the United Gas Improvement Company. On the other hand, many of the most effective special libraries have, to the eye of the general librarian, little of the appearance of a library. Their working tools are manuscript-reports, plates, photographs, or index references to material to be found in libraries in the same city, or even in far distant cities. Almost all special libraries will have some material of this sort, and will besides preserve and make much use of newspaper clippings and magazine excerpts, and will possess what might appear to be a disproportionate number of pamphlets.

While it is not easy to formulate a definition, there is no vagueness when it comes to the purpose of all special libraries, and it is in this purpose that they are united in their organization. Every special library is actively and aggressively interested in the solution of some present-day problems. In the solution of these problems it assists in presenting the material which later finds its way into print and so into the general library. It utilizes the knowledge of the individual expert, the results of special field work, and has ever in mind what is coming rather than what is done and past. But it recognizes that all good building for the future must have good foundation in the present and past, hence the special library also collects and sifts past and present printed material for the use of the active and expert worker, saving him from repeating the errors of the past and putting to his service the performance of other workers in his field. Not all special libraries can accomplish such thorough digesting of current thought and past performance as the library of the United Gas Improvement Company, but such work is the aim and object of every special library. To the general librarian the work of the typical legislative reference library in its saving of time to the legislator and needless legislation to the people may best illustrate the work and methods of the special library.

While many trained librarians have entered this field, most of the successful special libraries are in charge of men who were experts in their subjects before they became librarians, so that the question whether a special librarian should be first a specialist or first a librarian cannot be settled, and from the vast difference in conditions prevailing in the special library field may never be settled even theoretically, but there is encouragement in the present movement toward providing courses of study for special librarianship.

In January, 1910, there was begun by the association the publication of Special Libraries, at first a pamphlet of eight pages, but which, at the end of a strikingly useful life of four years, has reached the dignity of a monthly magazine of forty-two pages. This periodical prints in each number short bibliographies on live topics, directs to sources of up-to-date information, and has become of great value to expert workers in almost every field.

At the joint instance of the editor of the LIBRARY JOURNAL and the president of the Special Libraries Association the following questionnaire was sent out to quite a number of special libraries, and from the answers obtained the table annexed has been compiled. It was hoped in this way to make available to the library profession information concerning the special investigation being conducted and to form a nucleus for an exhaustive list of special libraries.

QUESTIONNAIRE

The LIBRARY JOURNAL submits the following questionnaire to a list of special libraries, inviting them to reply in time to publish if possible in the July issue of the JOURNAL an article dealing with various details of special library work. The data thus received is to be afterwards turned over to the Special Libraries Association. A copy of the JOURNAL or reprint of the article will gladly be sent to those who coöperate by answering the questions below:

1. Please state the name of the library, name of librarian, date of beginning, present number of books, and number of pamphlets.
2. What is the scope and special strength of your library?
3. What were the needs that caused the starting of your library, and what is the trend of questions that come to it?
4. How far do you avail yourself of the other library resources of your community, and have you anything like coöperation in reference work?
5. What, if anything, do you publish or have you published which may be available for distribution, and what are the terms of distribution?

Your reply before June 15, 1913, to the LIBRARY JOURNAL, 141 East 25th street, New York City, would be appreciated, for which please find enclosed addressed envelope.

D. N. HANDY, President,
Special Libraries Association.
R. R. BOWKER, Editor,
LIBRARY JOURNAL.

NOTES

The notes which follow will give additional information, grouped for greater convenience of reference under three heads. The numbers used refer in each case to the numbers assigned the several libraries in the tabulation.

PRIVATE BOOK COLLECTORS

NOTE

THIS list is intended to include the names of the leading private collectors of book specialties throughout the country. It is not, of course, fully comprehensive, but it is widely representative, both geographically and in respect to specialties of collection. It is arranged geographically in correspondence with the select list of public libraries in this volume, and usefully supplements that list. It has not been planned nor desired to include the many thousands of private libraries, but only collections on special subjects. The list is not intended to include professional libraries, such as the law books of a lawyer or the theological books of a clergyman, unless they are of a special or unusual character; but it is quite possible that private libraries or professional collections may be inadvertently included in some cases. Specialties, one or more, of the collector are indicated as far as information could be obtained. About five hundred changes, consisting of additions, corrections and omissions have been made in the list as printed in the American Library Annual of last year. It is requested that librarians and private collectors will both cooperate in the further correction and extension of this list for future issue.

A DIRECTORY OF BOOKSELLERS

A DIRECTORY OF BOOKSELLERS

IN THE PRINCIPAL TOWNS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

THIS selective list of the bookselling trade in the principal towns of the United States and Canada, to which it is confined, may, it is thought, be more useful for practical purposes than a more extensive list including newsdealers, cigar stands, drug stores, etc., which keep on sale magazines and paper-covered books only and can scarcely be classed as bookstores. For circularizing and similar purposes such a list will be found preferable to one attempting to cover all places, big and little, and all who sell periodicals and the like. Department stores are, however, included, designated by the abbreviation D. S., when they have book departments; circulating libraries by C. L.; second-hand dealers are designated by the abbreviation S-h., and other specialties, such as Catholic, Law, Educational, etc., are designated by self-explanatory abbreviations. In case of the omission of any names properly within the scope of the list, and any other errors of commission or omission, and for the purpose of making such additions in the future as new logical development may justify, the co-operation of the trade and particularly of the travelers is invited.
